Governor of West Virginia

Gov. Herman Guy Kump, former circuit court judge, smiles easily and often but he is a hard fighter who, in his own words, feels "at home under the guns." He reads many good books, hunts, travels, fishes, raises bird dogs, rides horseback. . . . He became governor in 1933 when the Democratic party took control of West Virginia for the first time in 36 years. . . . and immediately put West Virginia's bureau of governmental resources to work as his "brain trust." . . . Now has the state politicians guessing about his political future.

Indian Girl Collapses

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Betty Lee, a 23-year-old Indian girl of Sanford, Tex., collapsed in a theater early today and was taken to Bellevue Hospital suffering from the effects of malnutrition and exposure. She said she had been wandering over the city in search of work for four days. Her last food, she said, was eaten 36 hours before she collapsed. The tall, grey-eyed girl left Sanford 10 days ago by bus and travelled as far as Bristol, Tenn. From there she hitchhiked to New York, arriving here with $1.75. She said her father Big Chief Lee was killed in a land feud a month ago and that her mother Little Star died three years ago.

Ladies' Aid Meeting

Whitfield, Oct. 1.—The Ladies' Aid will hold their monthly meeting in the church basement on Wednesday, October 2, at 2:30 o'clock. A pot luck supper will be served to the families and friends. The young people are planning an entertainment for the evening. Everybody is welcome.

Cotton Country

Roanoke, Ala. Lum Freeman picked cotton, and his baby played in the field.

Pup played around the baby and barked and yapped. He began yapping like anything, and Lum Freeman went running to where the baby was.

Pup was yapping at a five-foot rattler that was crawling up to the baby.

Lum's got the rattles.

Hay Foot

Wilmington, Del. Somebody stole 12 sample shoes from the automobile of Charles Chipley of Baltimore, taking only those for the left foot.

Migratory Lizards

Tallahassee, Fla.—The governor of Florida has a pet chameleon. It was sent to him by James Wilson of Lansdowne, Pa., who asked: "Please let him out in your garden for the winter."

Somnambulator?

Dallas, Tex.—A man wobbled genially along a downtown street, the night breeze caressing his scrawny shanks. Officers Newman and Dravner stopped their car alongside.

"Forgotten something?" one of them asked.

"My—I've been robbed," shouted the man. His trousers were gone.

MODENA

Modena, Oct. 1.—Two hundred people were served at the annual clambake of the members of the Dairywomen's Co-operative League Association, which was held Thursday afternoon in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. It was reported as the most successful affair of its kind, this season. Dairywomen were represented from many sections of the county.

Local Home Bureau members attended the meeting in the Reformed Church at New Paltz, Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Evelyn Tobey, stylist from Columbia University, was guest speaker.

Mrs. Walter Ince of New Paltz spent Wednesday in town.

Mrs. Harold Delamater of Poughkeepsie was a visitor here Thursday. George Crist of Walkkill was a caller in this place Thursday.

Ivor H. Smith, assistant supervisor at The Interprints at Goshen, spent the week-end at Danville, Pa. Mrs. Cornelia Taylor and Mrs. Myron Shultz were visitors in Kingston Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Lillian Sletker and Miss Emma Palmer of Ardonia, were callers here last week.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ross Brown and family were guests of Mrs. Lillian Brown at Latham on Sunday.

Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Crosswell and daughter, June, of Highland, called on relatives here Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lillian C. Smith, student nurse at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh, visited at her home near Modena last week.

FDR GREETES HIS FARM FRIENDS

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Plans and specifications for the construction of signals and an interlocking system in connection with the elimination of grade crossings of the Erie and the Pennsylvania railroads in Elmira estimated to cost $138,612 had the approval of the Public Service Commission today.

Batavia, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Ethan Stone, 91, of North Pembroke, died in a hospital yesterday from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile as he stepped into the center of a road to remove a dead skunk. The machine was driven by Allen Burgess of Oaks Corners.

Old Fort Niagara, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Col. Charles H. Morrow, commander at Fort Niagara, and William Wallace Kincaid, Saturday will receive the Legion of Honor award from the French government for their work in connection with the restoration of Old Fort Niagara. The presentation will be made during ceremonies dedicating the bust of Samuele De Champlain, French explorer.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Robert Enslin, 14-months old, was fatally burned yesterday by scalding water when his mother left the bath room for a short time while she was bathing the infant. Little Bobby was in the tub with his brother, Donald, 2, and one of them turned on the hot water.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—The largest number of undergraduates ever to attend Colgate University are registered this year. Dr. Frederick M. Jones, registrar, said yesterday, 1,037 students are attending the university. The previous high was 1,007 students.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Leonard W. Bufundo of New Rochelle, William M. Golder of Port Washington, Walter W. Ivanshyn of Troy and John W. Hoesen of Scotia were graduated with honors yesterday from the New York State Merchant Marine Academy. Their names were on the honor roll of the class of 34 graduates.

Federated Council

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Federated Council will be held at the high school Wednesday, October 2, at 2:15 p. m. Each president is urged to bring the publicity chairman, the membership chairman and the parent education chairman of her unit.

Republican Women To Meet. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Downtown Republican Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the club rooms at 89 Broadway. It is requested that all members be present.

Rough Road Ahead For Van Sweringens

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—With controlling securities of their gigantic railroad network in their pockets, the Van Sweringer brothers of Cleveland steamed off on another phase of their rail career today.

On the way back to complete mastery of their railway system the brothers will have to pass a number of danger signals, Wall Street banking circles said.

In these quarters it is believed that the actual bidding-in of the key securities by the van Sweringens yesterday was merely a point of departure.

With the aid of George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland steamship operator, and George A. Ball, Indiana glass jar manufacturer, the Van Sweringers bought at open auction stocks and bonds which they had put up as collateral for loans which, with back interest, totaled about $50,000,000.

The collateral was placed on the block by a banking group headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The bankers realized about $4,703,000 and suffered a loss of approximately $45,297,000. The bulk of the loss, it was said in Wall Street, was borne by the Morgan firm.

The Van Sweringens still are confronted with pending receiverships of two of the units of their rail domain, the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

They must gain the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission to the ownership and management of their roads by the newly organized holding company, Mid-America Corp., the legal instrument which bought back Allegheny Corp. and other controlling securities.

ST. REMY

St. Remy, Oct. 1.—J. V. Freer is painting his house.

Mrs. Maurice Franck attended the Dairywomen's League clambake at Modena on Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their October meeting in the Sunday School room of the church on Thursday, October 3, at 2:30 p. m. The hostesses are Mrs. Tracy Van Vleet, Mrs. Lewis Van Vleet and Mrs. K. Sutton. New members and visitors always welcome.

The Men's Community Club will meet in the Sunday School room Thursday evening, October 3. Harry Havlin is painting the roof of Harry Ellsworth's house.

Ladies' Aid Meeting

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James M. E. Church will meet in the church parlor on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. The president, Mrs. Frederick Snyder, requests a large attendance. Those having dishes at home are asked to return same to church kitchens so the count might be accurate for the coming turkey dinner and fair on October 16.

Republican Caravan To Fight for the GOP

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—A Republican caravan, designed to carry the G. O. P. fight for control of the State Assembly to the furthestmost corners of the state, will start the long trek from New York Monday.

Under plans announced last night by the Republican state committee the caravan will journey from New York to the north country and then will swing west. Arriving in Erie county, the middle of October, the group will spend two days there and then start a swing through the southern tier section.

A corps of speakers, headed by Henry Root Stern, treasurer of the state committee; F. Trubee Davison, former assistant secretary of war, and George L. Harvey, Queens Borough president, will address gatherings in the various counties.

Melvin C. Eaton, G. O. P. state chairman, plans to accompany the group. He said last night he was "eager to meet at first hand" voters in the outlying sections.

The caravan will leave New York city on Monday morning and will spend the first two days in Westchester and Putnam counties. October 9 will be spent in Columbia and Greene counties and the nineteenth in Rockland.

AAA Officials Ready For Potato Explosion

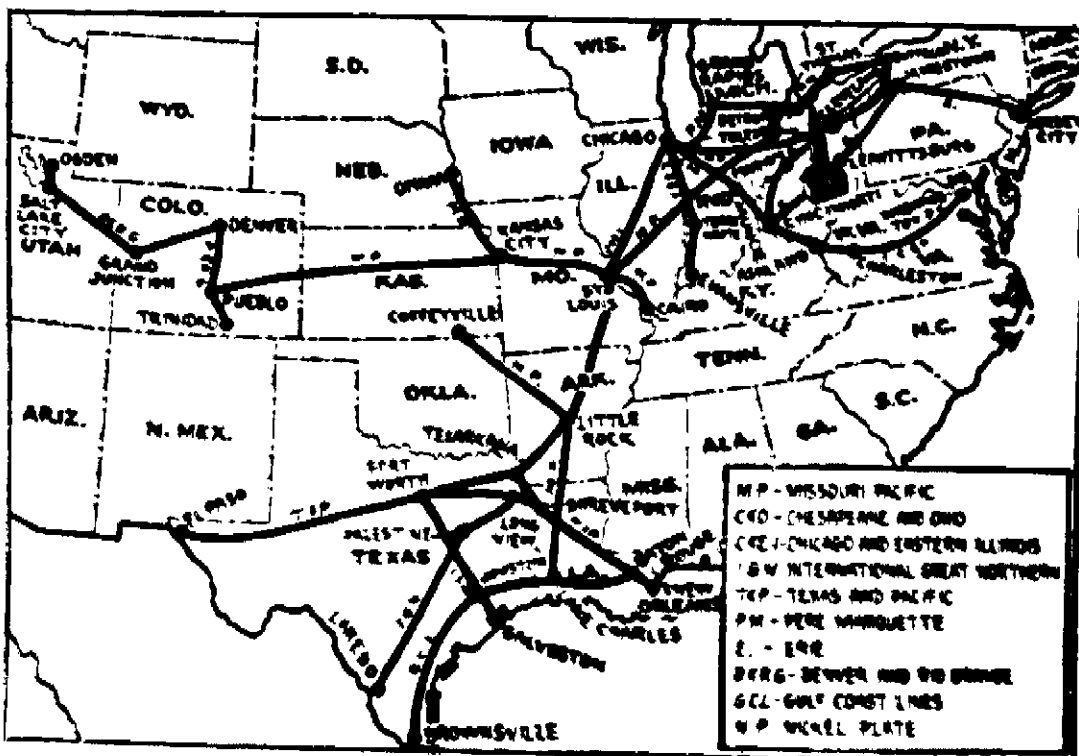

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—AAA officials, some of them openly hostile to control of potato production through tax penalties, braced themselves today for a storm of criticism expected to strike from two sides at Thursday's meeting of potato growers.

Many growers already have denounced the tax control program. On the other hand farm officials said privately they expected some members of Congress who sponsored the plan to demand that it be carried out.

The AAA called the hearing Thursday to consider and discuss the possible substitution of a voluntary reduction program, with benefit payments to growers, for the compulsory tax-control set-up. Authoritative sources disclosed that many high AAA officials have decided that the compulsory tax-control law is entirely unenforceable, and that an effort will be made to have Congress modify the law or repeal it outright.

It was pointed out that the law applies only to potatoes harvested after December 1, 1935, and that Congress will be in session before the next crop of potatoes will be harvested.

VAST RAIL EMPIRE ON AUCTION BLOCK

Here is shown the far-flung Van Sweringer railroad empire, the stock control of which went on the auction block in New York. These interests, coupled with others controlled by the Van Sweringers, total $2,000,000,000, included among them is the huge terminal tower at Cleveland. (Associated Press Photo)

To Consider Indictments.

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Bergen county grand jury met today to consider murder indictments against Genarro Pollicastro, 35, of Lyndhurst, and his bride of three months, Carmela, 40, for the death of a Yonkers (N. Y.) man whose body was found beneath a window of their home. First Assistant Prosecutor Leland F. Ferry and County Detective Chief Henry B. Lockwood said no new evidence was discovered yesterday in the investigation. The couple is accused of killing Alphonse Paolillo, 60, of 151 High street, Yonkers, cousin of Mrs. Pollicastro, last Wednesday.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 1, 1935

RECOVERY FORCES

Natural recovery forces continue to operate "in plain fashion," writes Leonard P. Ayres, business statistician, and hold business activity up to the levels established last spring. People are buying automobiles and refrigerators, traveling more freely and patronizing amusements better. They are buying more household goods. Farmers are having the best year since 1929. And these conditions all help business.

But they are not enough in themselves to make business more than barely good, over the country as a whole. Three things especially are needed for full recovery. They are export trade, railroad buying and building construction. Of these three, building alone would do "more to promote recovery than any other development that seems possible." Here, then, is the place for the big push. Everybody who starts a useful building project, or who finances one, is helping along the good work.

FISHY TREASURE

It's funny what a bit of money will do to people. When a two-pound pickerel was being cleaned by a fisherman in Winnipegosis, Man., the other day, a quarter dropped out of it. That bit of silver promptly started one of the biggest silver rushes in history. The other fishermen in the neighborhood figured that if one fish was carrying around two big pieces, the rest of them were probably doing likewise. So, with the fish coming in and a big stock on hand, they started a grand silver-hunt which resulted, if the dispatch was correct, in the cleaning of $5,000 pounds of fish in one day.

They made money out of it, too. But they found no more quarters. It reminds one of the farmer who got his land spaded up and ready for planting by planting a few coins here and there. People would so much rather get something by chance than by straight work.

MEXICAN FEMINISM

The plan of President Cardenas for woman suffrage in Mexico pleases Americans, who take that sort of thing as a matter of course, but arouses doubt as to whether Mexican women are ready for it. Cardenas is rather cautious, proposing the vote only for "working women" at present. That is to say, women earning wages in business, industry or agriculture. The great mass of Mexican women, both in city and country, apparently remain untouched. If the experiment works well, the vote will be extended to all eventually.

Needless to say, this enfranchisement will hardly make more than a ripple at present in the life of so primitive a country as Mexico. Its chief value will be educational. It should make the intelligence of the nation in civic matters.

BABIES

The French National Alliance against Depopulation has more reason for its existence than similar organizations in most of our countries. It has issued an earnest appeal for more babies. Not necessarily "better babies," as a familiar Americanlogan expresses it, for it is understood that all French babies are good. It backs the appeal with these figures:

In the first eight months of this year French births were 10,000 less than in the same period last year. Meanwhile Germany has 102,000 more than last year. The second can't hold its own with the average at that rate. Marie France made a favorable statement making it plain the law had to have babies.

NOCTURNAL NUDISM

Now that autumn has risen to the glory of an international conference held in New Jersey in advance of the coming, perhaps we shall take it as a sign.

Little more seriously. From a joke, it threatens to become a nuisance. We may learn to endure this nuisance, as we endure various others that can't be helped. Nudist enthusiasts, we may assume, are just that way, and not much can be done about it. If they keep on cavorting around "an artificial" behind adequate barricades, we may learn to tolerate them. That is, by daylight, as votaries of the growing sun cult. But when they start pernicious propaganda for "domestic nudism" at night, and bragging about progress already made, they're going too far. In fact, they're going back to the Middle Ages. For the sake of comfort, if not decency, we insist on sleeping in our pajamas, and some of us in our nightshirts.

GAS ON THE STOMACH.

So, individuals are bothered practically all the time by "gas" on the stomach which "comes up" through the mouth; belching of "wind," it is often called. There are others who have this disturbance only at times. In the majority of cases this is believed to be due to a slowness of liver and gall bladder action, but it may be due to the position of the stomach under the diaphragm.

As you know, the diaphragm is the muscular wall separating the chest cavity containing the lungs and heart from the abdominal cavity containing the stomach and intestines.

When air is to be drawn in, the lungs the diaphragm naturally goes downward and on the left side it strikes against the top or dome of the stomach.

This top or dome of the stomach regulates the inside pressure of the stomach in that the size of the stomach varies or changes so that the total amount of the food in the stomach becomes adjusted to the space allowed by the pressure of the muscular walls of the stomach. This means that this dome or top is small when the pressure is high, and large when the pressure is low so that the necessary pressure or tonus is always present.

Dr. K. Heckmann, Berlin, in the Medical Clinic shows that under normal conditions the dome of the stomach is in intimate contact with the left half of the diaphragm. If it is not in contact then various conditions such as ascitis (dropsy), adhesions, and displacement of the large intestines may be present.

Dr. Heckmann points out that belching of gas from the stomach may be due to the fact that the top or dome of the stomach finds that it is using up too much room and so it exerts its muscular walls on these contents. This little extra pressure sends some of this gas or "wind" upwards and out of the mouth.

The thought then is that a little gas or wind coming up from the mouth at times is really "good" gas, as some physicians call it in that the stomach is regulating the pressure to the correct point for proper stomach digestion.

When this belching of gas occurs very often it would be well to consult your physician for an examination of the stomach and liver.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Oct. 1, 1915.—Sylvester Sicker and Mabel Miller married. Announced that a $30,000 addition would be made to the Kingston Hospital, and that $23,000 had already been raised.

Board of Water Commissioners decided to revise the water rates to consumers in Kingston.

Oct. 1, 1925.—Death of Mrs. Michael Schupp of Hanratty street. Judge Henry E. McKenna declined reelection as secretary of Democratic county committee. He had served as secretary for over 20 years.

Louis Sicker, 12, of Washington avenue, slightly injured when his bicycle was struck by an auto on Broadway.

The Rev. D. B. McRae of Oak Hill resigned to pastor of St. John's M. E. Church at Malden.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, Sept. 30.—The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Rodney DuBois on Tuesday evening.

The Men's Club is planning a card party to be held at Pythian Hall, Port Jervis. The date will be given later.

Many from the village attended the Republican caucus held in Port Jervis on Saturday.

The Democratic caucus was held Monday evening for this voting district at Ulster Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lamoreaux and family have moved from the Schermer house on Second street to the Beck residence on Third street.

Mrs. I. Foster of St. Johnsville, sister of Mrs. Ira Nasser, was operated on in the Benedictine Hospital by Dr. O'Connor on Friday for a serious ailment.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber and daughter, Shirley, of Marcellville and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Brown of Montgomery were passengers visitors on Sunday.

Ruth Thompson of Shohokan visited relatives in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. M. Hyatt has returned to her home after spending some time with her niece in Newburgh.

It can't be long now till Terrence goes in and settles the American in court, perhaps we shall take it as a sign.

Chapter 42

BAD MOMENT

THE horses were tied to trees at the other side of the clearing. Dan's horse nickered softly as he approached.

"This one is yours," he said to Emily, laying a hand upon the flank of a small chestnut next to his own. "He's got a soft mouth and he's as sure-footed as a goat."

She caressed the horse's shoulder, feeling the play of muscles beneath the skin. "I think," she turned impulsively to Dan "that a good horse is the most beautiful thing in the world."

Dan's face looked queer in the dim, frosty light. "Not quite," he said thickly, and before she could guess his intention, he had her in his arms.

None of Dan's casual caresses had prepared her for this. Not even marriage had warned her of the existence of such sheer animal passion.

She fought against it terrified, aware that Dan's mouth was brushing hers, that one arm crushed her against his hard body, that one hand lay against her breast.

She tore herself away finally and leaned against the horse's warm shoulder, sobbing for breath.

"Dan! What a rotten thing to do!" He straightened, fighting for composure. "God knows I'm sorry," he said huskily. "I forgot for the moment—what sort you were."

"That's no excuse," she said hotly. "I'm no baby!"

"Yes, you are," he said roughly. And added, "Oh, I know you've been married, and all that, but not to a man."

She stared at him, wondering if Judith—He read her thoughts. "Nobody's been telling tales," he reassured her. "I guessed that for myself. A real man would never have let you go, or if he had, would never have left you so—untouched."

She couldn't reply to that; she could only lean against the horse shivering. Dan closed his eyes for an instant and cursed himself.

He came close to her and took her hand, very gently. "Emily, honey, it won't happen again. Please forgive me and trust me." He lifted her hand, and kissed her fingers softly; turned his hands over and laid their palms against his burning face. "Please, Emily—"

She relaxed. Perhaps Dan was right, and she was childish and untouchable. "I'll try."

He said, "Thank you," almost humbly, and slipping one of her hands through his arm turned once more towards the cabin. At the door he paused, shamefaced.

"Have you—got some powder in your pocket?"

She flushed, thinking for the first time of what he must have done to her appearance. She powdered her face; tucked her disordered hair under the little hat. Together they went into the shack.

"THE group before the fire greeted them without looking up. Only Judith glanced swiftly at Emily and guessed what had happened. Dan was a beast, she decided; perhaps after all she had better tell Emily of David's cable of David, speeding across the Mediterranean."

For two weeks, now, she had carried the words of David's answer in her heart: "Take a sixty-day option. Home next month. Cheerio! David." (It was like David to have disregarded cost and added that, "Cheerio!")

It Emily showed signs of becoming too interested in Dan she'd have to tell her, but she did want it for a surprise.

After seeing Emily settled Dan sank to the floor beside her. "Deal me in," he drawled, his voice normal again. "Emily's not playing. I need her for a mascot."

The game went on. Money changed hands swiftly and in breath-taking sums. Dan lost heavily; he was out again. At eleven he turned to Emily.

"Time for you to sleep a while."

She wanted to protest, but the thought of sleep was too alluring. One of the girls and the intoxicated gentleman had already succumbed. She laughed apologetically.

"I don't seem to be able to help it!"

He drew a dilapidated couch nearer the fire and found a heavy blanket that smelled strongly of horsehair. "Lie down," he ordered.

She curled up gratefully and he tucked the odorous blanket close about her, then stood for an instant smiling down at her. She returned the smile, reassured, and his weathered face flushed pathetically. Five minutes later she was asleep.

A hand upon her shoulder awakened her. The room was alive with activity.

"Time to get up," Dan told her briskly. "Mac's sent the pack loose and we'll have to hurry."

He helped her into her coat and they ran for the door. The intoxicated guest snored loudly on the floor.

"Aren't you going to wake him?" she asked.

Dan grinned. "Try and do it. He's never seen a fox-hunt in his life; this is as far as he ever gets."

Outside the moon was high and bright. The horses were saddled and waiting and several of the party were already under way. The yapping of the dogs came faintly from a distance.

They rode hard for several minutes along a sandy, uneven road, towards the barking of the dogs.

"Have they struck yet?" Emily asked between breaths.

"Not yet," Dan was close beside her. "They're just making conversation."

They drew up even with Judith and Aubrey, and reined in to listen. The dogs were in the woods to the right of them, uttering those short, purposeless yaps.

"Might as well wait," Aubrey suggested. "They seem to be circling."

SUDDENLY a new note sounded in the chorus, a deep, prolonged howl.

"That's Lead!" Dan cried. "Wait and see what direction they take."

The tone of the distant chorus had changed unmistakably, so that even Emily could tell the difference. It grew fainter as the dogs trailed. Judith said resignedly, "I hope to heaven it's not a red fox."

"Why?" Emily asked.

"A red fox runs straight, for miles and miles. The dogs might not get home until tomorrow night."

They rode slowly forward, reining in occasionally to listen. The rest of the party was a short distance ahead. Emily was unable to judge the distance, but she guessed that already they must have ridden several miles. And then she realized that the deep-throated chorus was growing louder.

Dan reined in quickly. "They're coming back. Must be a gray fox, Jude."

Minutes went by. The entire party was together now, tense and silent, and the chorus was growing gradually louder. Suddenly still a different note was sounded.

"Oh-oh!" Tallier bounced in his saddle. "Tree bark! Hit's a coon, Mist' Dan; hit's a coon, she's I'm settin' hyah."

Dan turned his horse and rode back several hundred yards, followed by the rest of the party. He veered sharply to the left and took a trail leading into the heart of the pine woods.

They reached the milling dogs at last and Mac flicked on a powerful searchlight. High in the scrubby pine scrouched a turrey animal, his eyes gleaming green in the light.

Yaller began to chortle. "Hit's a coon. Didn't I tell you hit was a coon?"

Suddenly a shot rang out and the dark furry body hurtled to the ground.

"Oh!" The cry was wrung from Emily, a note of pity and horror. Judith patted her arm.

Slowly, with the aid of the searchlight, they made their way back through the woods. Tallier carried the coon like a banner, as one more example of Wianie's prowess. Dawn was breaking as they reached the horses, and they began the long ride back to the cabin in the dim gray light of a January morning.

Dan looked anxiously at Emily.

"Tired?"

She shook her head. "I was too excited to think about it. I can't believe we've been out more than a few minutes."

He smiled. "We've been riding nearly four hours. Was it worth the trouble?"

She nodded eagerly. "Oh yes. I hated seeing the coon shot, but even then I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

He patted her hand approvingly. "Atta girl!"

She wondered, seeing him now, if she had dreamed the scene after supper, and wished with all her heart that she had.

Breakfast was ready when they reached the shack and they fell upon it ravenously. Afterwards she was vaguely conscious of bidding everyone goodby. By the time the car reached Norton Hall she was sound asleep on the back seat while Judith slept again with her head in Aubrey's lap.

50 Millions in Gifts Reported in Capital

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP).—Directors and large stockholders of corporations have given away about $52,000,000 worth of securities in the past six months.

During August, the securities commission disclosed in a report published today, such gifts totaled $12,000,000. Figures for the previous five months had been released earlier.

About three-quarters of the $52,000,000 was given away after President Roosevelt had asked Congress to increase gift taxes. If the gifts had been delayed until after January 1, 1936, when the new law became effective, recipients would have received about $1,000,000 less. This is because the present tax on the total amounts to about $8,000,000 as compared with $6,000,000 under the new law.

Reports of the gifts are contained in monthly statements to the securities commission showing all kinds of stock transactions by directors and holders of more than 10 per cent of a corporation's stock, but usually not the names of the recipients of gifts.

George F. Baker, head of the First National Bank of New York, was both a substantial giver and seller of securities during August. His gifts of General Motors, U. S. Steel, Pullman, and New York Central stocks were worth about $4,642,000 on the market and his sales of the same stocks approached $2,000,000.

About $300,000 of the capital stock of Stone and Webster, Inc., given by Charles A. Stone, New York.

35 KNOWN DEAD IN HURRICANE

With only incomplete reports available, official estimates put the number of dead in the hurricane that lashed Cuba and threatened Florida at 35. State Historical Society Meeting

The annual meeting of the New York State Historical Society opened its first session at Lake Mohonk yesterday.

The meeting was opened by Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president of the society, following with an address by Mr. Smiley of Lake Mohonk.

Two papers were then presented, covering some of the little known histories of Ulster county. Mrs. Bruno Zimm of Woodstock was the first speaker, giving a paper of exceptional interest on the advertisements in the newspapers of old Ulster.

Mrs. Zimm's paper contained many humorous, quaint and historical facts. Among the many gems in Mrs. Zimm's paper were many amusing poems conceived by the old merchants to advertise their wares.

The next paper was given by Fred J. Johnston of Kingston on the Ulster county chair and glass makers with particular attention given to the history of Woodstock glass, a subject on which Mr. Johnston has devoted much time and research and proved to be quite an authority.

Mr. Johnston made his paper additionally interesting by illustrating his paper with several fine pieces of Woodstock and Ellenville glass.

This speaker had the honor to be one of the youngest persons to ever address the society, proving to be, however, a very accurate researcher and interesting historian.

Also included in Mr. Johnston's paper were the histories of the early Kingston cabinet makers and the manufacture of glass at Ellenville, N. Y. As a whole this paper contained many interesting heretofore unknown facts. The history of the Woodstock glass factory being the most complete work ever done on this subject and will undoubtedly prove of value to researchers and collectors of old glass all over the country.

A discussion on the two mentioned papers was then held by Charles Messer Stow, editor of the art and antique department of the New York Sun, after which luncheon was served completing the morning of the first session.

Port Ewen Methodists Plan Celebration

The 80th anniversary of the beginning of Methodism in Port Ewen will be celebrated by the Port Ewen Methodist Episcopal Church this fall. Most of the celebration will take place between November 10 and November 17 but the first event will occur on Friday evening, October 4.

At that time, a commemoration concert will be given in the church sanctuary by three choirs under the direction of the pastor's wife, Mrs. Mary Gray Legg. The concert is in commemoration of a concert which was given in the Port Ewen church on October 4, 1853, at the time when the organ which is now in use in the church was purchased from the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church of this city.

One of the features of the commemoration concert will be an organ solo by Mrs. Mary DePew of this city, who, as organist of Trinity Church in 1853, played the organ in the original concert in the Port Ewen Church. In addition, a selection will be rendered by a choir composed of people who were members of the choir in the Port Ewen Church at the turn of the century. The regular choir of the church and the choir of the future will also participate in the concert.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Amy Zimmerman and family will move to Kingston October 1.

Grey Squirrels And Pheasants In Park

A number of grey squirrels and pheasants have taken up their home in Hasbrouck Park, and lately the boys who frequent the park have been making life miserable for these wild guests by stoning them and also firing at them with air rifles. Squirrels and pheasants are protected by state law and those who are found stoning or shooting at them are subject to arrest and imposition of a heavy penalty.

BARRARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

The Barbara Bell Pattern Book featuring Fall Designs is ready. Send 15 cents today for your copy.

Pattern No. 1707-B

Two Blouses to Wear With Your Smartest Suit

These designs have been chosen to go with a smart two piece suit. The blouse at the top of the illustration is one you'll like when there is tea in the offing. For it is very feminine, and very becoming, with its big flaring bow, really revers, which begin down low at the seams which make a panel in front. This blouse needs no belt, for the material is draped a little round the waistline, and caught with a buckle in back. The sleeves are long and plain, but too tightly fitting, and crashed a little at the wrists.

Have the second design in wool jersey, thin and fine, in citron or rust, or black. If your suit is a bright color. The little round collar and severely buttoned front are both good details for the valetown top.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1707-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 and 24. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. The dressy blouse requires 2 yards of 39-inch material for size 14 (34). The tailored blouse requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for size 14 (34).

SEND FOR THE FALL AND WINTER BARBARA BELL PATTERN BOOK. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming by selecting designs from the one hundred and nineteen Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure. Afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the BARBARA BELL PATTERN BOOK. Send

Smart and Wearable

Edited by LAURA L. BALDT, A. M.

For many years Assistant Professor of Household Arts, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York.

An interesting feature of today's model in black silk crepe of novelty weave is the neck arrangement and softly falling labor frills. Besides being decorative, these frills will be found very helpful by some fuller builds.

The simplicity of this charming dress, makes it very wearable and easy to sew.

Style No. 3478 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/4 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

MAKE MENUS MORE SUBSTANTIAL NOW THAT OCTOBER IS HERE

IT FORESHADOWS FALL—THIS PUMPKIN PIE

There's a tang to the air! October is here! Let's bring on pumpkin pie—and steak—and give a thought to Halloween.

We have pumpkin pie almost all year round. True! But fall is the real time for this grandest of pies. It belongs in an October menu. Suppose we plan one. How's this? Broiled steak with onion rings and sautéed potatoes, salad of cold slaw, and, for dessert, pumpkin pie with cheese.

That pumpkin pie! It's really a kind of custard pie, remember, and must be baked slowly in order to keep the ingredients from separating. Follow this recipe:

- Pumpkin Pie
- 1 1/2 cups steered, cooked or canned, pumpkin.
 - 4 cup brown sugar
 - 2 tablespoons butter, melted
 - 2 tablespoons molasses
 - 1 teaspoon ground ginger
 - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 - 4 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs slightly beaten
 - 1 1/2 cup milk, scalded
 - Combine pumpkin, sugar, melted butter, molasses, spices and salt. Add slightly beaten eggs and milk.

Line a pie plate with pastry. Brush with unbeaten egg white, and turn in pumpkin mixture. Bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes. Then reduce heat to 350° F. and continue baking until pointed knife inserted in center comes out clean—about 30 minutes longer.

In case you use freshly cooked pumpkin, be sure to have it as dry as possible. Baked or steamed, sieved pumpkin is best. For an extra good pie, add another egg. It's the eggs, remember, that give the lovely custardy consistency. If a sweeter pie is more to your taste you can increase the sugar a little—up to 1/2 cup. But don't cut down on the butter, because this helps give the pie its richness and makes it shiny.

Make This Curly-Eared Dog for Some Youngster

PATTERN 3448
Personality—the chief feature of a good mascot or an adored toy. Here it is in this curly-eared, curly-tailed dog. Maybe he's a Pomeranian perhaps a spaniel, but he's certainly a full-breed when it comes to being joyous toy. His tail is a lovely handle—his floppy ears are sewn in so securely even pulling can't dislocate them! And his tail will be just as part as this when you make the dog, for it's properly stuffed. As a mascot, he'd be lovely in a gay print or real loud velvet—any mascot must be heard, of course!

In pattern 3448 you will find a pattern and detailed directions for making the dog, and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 235 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

MILTON

Milton, Sept. 30.—The Arts and Crafts studio at Vassar College Poughkeepsie has reopened and is displaying a great variety of work. The studio is open from 2 to 6 p. m. to the general public. Henrietta Scott Miller of Milton again in charge, attended the Crafts Conference at Peabody, N. C. during the summer and returned with a number of new patterns in weaving now being exhibited, suit and coat material of hand woven cloth for both men and women are interesting in texture and color especially when enhanced by hand made buttons and buckles of original design. Hand woven ties and scarfs for men are of severe design with color less vivid than those employed in women's scarfs. These are arranged in Ascot fashion in triangles and squares, some in stripes and others in gray plaids weaving appears to be the most popular of the craft examples of book binding, jewelry, metal work and block printing are also attractive.

The home of the late Dr. A. C. J. Gervais of Milton has been sold by Mrs. Gervais to Dr. John Mansella of Troy. Dr. Mansella is a graduate of the University of St. Louis, Mo. and served an internship at Nyack General Hospital, Troy. He is married and is interested in county communities.

Mrs. Elsie Hallock of Milton will serve on the reception committee at a tea and meeting to be held in Kingston Friday, October 4, by Republicans of the county. A school of politics is to be held that afternoon where competent speakers will explain our political system. The reception and meeting are to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Knitting Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Elsie Hallock Wednesday evening, with Miss Minna Strohman hostess.

The ladies of the Milton Presbyterian Church have been invited to attend the Presbyterian meeting to be held on Thursday, October 10, at the Presbyterian Church at Cold Spring.

Dr. W. B. Harris of Marlborough and Miss Minna Strohman, town nurse, have been making the medical examinations in the Milton schools last week. Before his death, Dr. A. C. J. Gervais was the medical examiner. His death was a great loss to the community as well as in other places where he had patients and made friends by his pleasant manner. He was much beloved by all who knew him.

A meeting of the Ladies' Needlecraft and Women's Missionary Societies, will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Martin, Wednesday afternoon, October 2.

The Rev. Ralph H. Northrop and wife were in Tuxedo on Wednesday afternoon, where Mr. Northrop assisted in the funeral services of Charles Patterson, president of the Tuxedo Park Association, and one of the supervisors of Orange county for over 35 years.

Five fine hens were quietly removed from the premises of Mrs. Hickey on the Milton turnpike some time last week. Very few clucks were left as to the identity of the thieves who took the chickens from Mrs. Hickey, but such as they are being followed.

There will be no meeting of the Milton Grange until the evening of October 21.

Delaware grapes brought as high as $6 a ton last week, with buyers fanning the baskets.

Local apple growers are practically finished with picking McIntosh apples. The Delicious and Greening apple picking season is now at its height. This week will be the completion of Kiefer pears. Both apples and pears are being put in cold storage according to the Hudson River Fruit Exchange.

The people of the town of Marlborough are to have a chance very soon to vote on the question of consolidation of all the school districts of the town into one district. The town school consolidation committee will meet on early this week as possible. Notice of the date will be sent to all members. This meeting is of great importance. The state superintendent of education has sent to Superintendent Johnson the order to lay out the new district. Mr. Johnson has filed with Town Clerk Hall as required by law this official order. There is now much for the committee to do at once to prepare for the actual vote on the question which will take place within a very few weeks. Louis McKee, vice chairman of the committee, is proceeding with arrangements to

MODERN WOMEN

Jury Dooms Sherman To the Electric Chair

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 1 (AP)—A Yankee jury branded Newell P. Sherman a wife-murderer today in a verdict dooming him to the electric chair.

The wife, victim of "an American tragedy," whose rival was Esther Magill, machine shop co-worker of the choir-singing scout-master husband, was drowned from a canoe on Lake Singletary.

Judge Thomas J. Hammond told the jurors:

"You can look the world in the face with the satisfaction that comes of a duty well performed."

The 242-pound slayer displayed no emotion as the verdict was announced at 1:52 a. m. None of his family was present.

The mandatory death sentence will not be pronounced until the defense has had opportunity to file an appeal.

The jury deliberated more than 9 hours.

It accepted the state's charge that Sherman lured his wife, who could not swim, into a canoe for the first time in her life, overturned the frail craft, pushed her away when she tried to cling to him, and swam ashore.

The state advanced as a motive for the crime Sherman's admitted illicit relations with 18-year-old Miss Magill.

District Attorney Owen A. Hoban introduced evidence to show that Sherman, a few days before his wife gave birth to their second child, kept a rendezvous with the "other woman."

Sherman admitted a "date" with the Magill girl on April 26, his 26th birthday.

The defense was, in brief, that the canoe overturned accidentally and that he swam ashore with the canoe under his arm, impelled only by a desire for self-preservation.

Sherman slept in the detention pen throughout the greater part of the jury's deliberation. He chatted with his guards and sang for them in a low voice "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

Long's Mandates Become Law Today

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 1 (AP)—Huey Long's last legislative mandates—37 of them—became law today as the administration he left behind him pushed an investigation into his assassination.

Long started the program through a special session of the legislature three weeks ago but was struck down by a bullet before the work of enacting the statutes was completed. The legislature, however, went ahead and finished the task.

Meanwhile, the state constabulary which Long set up to rule Louisiana had a court order to inspect all long-distance telephone calls made from Baton Rouge on September 8, the night the senator was shot as he walked in a statehouse corridor.

Long was fatally wounded by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., whose wife's father, Judge B. H. Pavy, of Opelousas, was threatened with the loss of his office by one of the acts in the legislature.

That act, removing Judge Pavy to another judicial district in which Long assertedly controlled more voting strength, was included in the list of 37 just placed in operation.

Several laws aimed at the administration of President Roosevelt, with which Long was at bitter odds, became effective today.

One makes it a criminal offense for federal agents to expend money in Louisiana for purposes not specifically authorized under the United States Constitution.

Alaskan Officials Despair for 4 Lives

Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 1 (AP)—Alaskan officials concluded reluctantly today only a chance discovery will disclose the Arctic hideaway of an airplane believed to have crashed in the wilderness with its four occupants.

Forty days of ceaseless searching was ended with dozens of fires and searches no nearer solution of the strange disappearance August 19 of Pilot Arthur F. Hines and his passengers, Mr. and Mrs. John Loos and Alton Nordale, all of Alaska.

Thousands of dollars was spent in the hunt, some of it contributed by Alaskan pilots, some given by anxious friends. Three persons were injured and a ship destroyed in a crash growing out of the search.

With winter closing down in the northland additional flying became useless, as snows covered any marks that might indicate the fate of the ship and its cargo.

Flying does not cease in winter here, however, and it was foregone that pilots flying the Arctic airways would cast an occasional glance backward in the remote hope they might yet find a clue to the mystery.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A night football game, the first on the regular schedule of the Big Ten, is going to be given air details on Saturday night. Contenders are Northwestern and Purdue, play to take place at Evanston, Ill. CBS expects to start broadcasting at 9:30, and there is a possibility that NBC also will have announcers present.

Although the World Series is expected to occupy a big share of the network time Saturday afternoon, WEAF-NBC has decided to provide some football as well. As soon as the baseball description ends it will cut in on the Indiana-Center game at Bloomington, Ind.

No what Ed Hill, a CBS commentator, has tried his hand at night broadcasting for NBC. Boone Carter, another CBS talker about current events, is to go ahead into sports, too. But he's making his sports bid in baseball, having been assigned to handle the "color" part of the NBC description about the world series. In a sense he takes the place Graham McNamee occupied last year, and for which Graham was slated this season in the original announcement of the NBC speakers.

TRY THESE TONIGHT (TUESDAY):

WEAF-NBC—7:45—You and Your Government; 9—Ben Bernie; 9:30—Eddie Duchin; 10—Sigmund Romberg Music; 10:30—Great Moments in History; 12—Jack Russell Orchestra.

Four Men's Club Union Meeting Near Frederick Snyder

A fine body of men gathered at the St. James M. E. Church Monday night, when the Men's Club of the church entertained the Men's Clubs of the First and Fair Street Reformed Churches and the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

Maurice Niles, president of the St. James club, presided. Following prayer by the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of the church, and two pleasing solos by Donald Clark, who was accompanied on the piano by Leonard Stine, Frederick Snyder, lecturer and traveler, gave one of his always interesting and characteristic talks. The meeting concluded with a service of refreshments, including a fine McIntosh apple for every man—and a number of ladies—present. The apples were from a basket from the orchard of Edward Osterhout, on the Flatbush road, a gift to the club.

That the presence of Mr. Snyder was appreciated was shown by the fact that after he had concluded his address he was kept busy answering questions all through the hour during which refreshments were being served and then afterward, as a listening group gathered about him, until nearly 11:30. He certainly was in a full evening, but seemed to be willing to oblige all the seekers after knowledge to the best of his ability and they, in turn, fully appreciated his courtesy and the many interesting bits of information and incidents of travel in foreign countries which were brought out.

A Significant War Cloud
Mr. Snyder, who has attained reputation for forecasting the news of each year since 1930 he had received the international award for his ability to forecast news events, and at the opening of his talk that he most significant thing just now was news that had not appeared in any newspaper—a very significant war cloud, mention of which was not to be found in any newspaper.

He said that the mobilization in the Mediterranean was "only incidental against Mussolini" and later, in answering a direct question on the subject admitted that the Balkan question was, in his estimation, involved in what was being done.

The speaker said that his forecasting was based upon the proposition that "Man is a series of events," and that forecasting depended upon knowing these events and figuring that would be the ultimate result.

Talks on Many Subjects
Among some of the points brought out by Mr. Snyder during his talk, were:

Huey Long. No one can succeed in real truth of his killing has been told yet. Question whether he was not killed by a bullet fired by his own bodyguard.

Opinions. Change opinions every day, if necessary—but have fixed convictions. Don't be persuaded from your convictions.

The coming war will not destroy civilization. No one knows when the war program will end. It is like a narcotic.

The Unearned Dollar
The $36 dollar. People have lost sight of the fact that "The dollar is a unit of energy and the dollar is over a dollar until it is earned."

Gold. Our isolation of gold will prove to be a dangerous thing. Self-determination of nations. Freedom for small nations. Continued dangerous germs. They are given flags but no funds. Self-determination is not so good.

"We are now closing the 21st year of the World War. We are continuing the Armistice."

League of Nations. Tonight we in the United States are members of the League of Nations in that we are taking part in the labor organization of the League, with a fixed price and staff.

Mussolini. "An artificial Caesar." A colossal military echo. "I think it is utterly mad—a man who is going to lose."

Russia—"One long continuing agony. I saw much to praise and much to criticize in Russia. It is all of contradictions. They are able to have many material blessings, but they won't have happiness."

There is deep-seated friction between Japan and Russia. The United States and War. The year 1936 will not pass before the United States is called to make a serious military decision.

Mr. Snyder's advice to the people of the United States was, "In face of all the violent headlines, go peacefully forward."

ITALIAN AND ETHIOPIAN SCENES AS WAR THREAT GROWS

Italian and Ethiopian military movements are depicted in these photos made recently in the areas where intense preparations for war have been underway. At top are shown a group of Italian soldiers near the Ethiopian border in Eritrea. Italy has concentrated many men and supplies of war in this region. Also at top is a view of Italian planes, scores of which have been sent to the East African sector. At bottom (left) Emperor Haile Selassie has issued instructions to his people on self preservation in case of an air raid. Natives are shown reading about what to do in case they are attacked from the air. Bottom, right, thousands of natives have congregated in Addis Ababa in anticipation of a mobilization order. from the Italian side, but would come from Ethiopia where, they believed, loosely controlled tribesmen might swarm over the border.

The Ethiopian announcement of an imminent mobilization was taken by the press as evidence of aggressiveness which newspapers said should be considered by the League of Nations.

Italian officials announced today that scouts had detected the presence of strong Ethiopian forces in the supposedly evacuated areas near Italy's Colonial frontiers.

Criticizes the League.

Brighton, England, Oct. 1 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps, at loggerheads with other labor leaders over the question of military sanctions, criticized the League of Nations bitterly today as "nothing but the tool of satiated imperialistic powers."

Addressing the annual convention of Britain's labor party, Sir Stafford urged the nation to shun any action which would pit British and Italian workmen in a death struggle on a battlefield.

Hugh Dalton, undersecretary for foreign affairs in the last labor government, had opened the conference debate on military sanctions by urging his party to "stand firm" behind the league and prevent Premier Mussolini from carrying out any "barbarous" aggression in Ethiopia.

Answering Dalton's recommendations, Sir Stafford said: "I have changed my views because events have satisfied me that the league, with three major powers outside, has become nothing but the tool of satiated imperialistic powers."

"In all probability, Mussolini will drive a satisfactory bargain with his fellow members of the International Burglars' Union even though they may have turned momentarily policemen."

Cripps declared that there was no man in the conference who "more cordially detests Mussolini in all his acts than I," but warned that when economic sanctions are applied "a state of war automatically exists and we must be prepared to defend those sanctions against a military attack."

"It is no use comforting ourselves with the thought that the risk of war is very remote and is unlikely to materialize if sanctions are used," he said. "Whether it is called military sanctions or war does not matter. It is the same thing."

"It means the use by our government of workers for military action against workers of Italy."

Lord Arthur Ponsonby, who recently resigned from the labor party leadership in the house of lords as a result of disagreement on the question of sanctions, warned that any attempt to apply sanctions would divide Europe into two hostile camps.

French Air Force

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—The French air force today were given unexpected orders to begin maneuvers tomorrow in the Lorraine and Champagne sectors and a new regiment of "fortress" infantry was formed to strengthen the troops on the German frontier at Strasbourg.

These military moves were authorized shortly after an official disclosure that France is bargaining for British assistance in the event of a German air attack in exchange for French aid if Italy attacks the British fleet formed in the Mediterranean in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

General Victor Leon Ernest Denain, French minister for air, described the air operations as "defense maneuvers" to test the ability of the planes to parry a sudden attack quickly.

The strengthening of the frontier force was advanced as a mere replacement of the troops withdrawn from there for service on the Italian frontier.

An attacking air force in the region between Metz and Nancy will send bombing squadrons against Pantaleo and Beauvais where light defense planes will try to chase them off before they are able to make the simulated bombardment.

The maneuvers also will test land devices for the detection of air invasions and the ability of reconnoitering planes to warn of the enemy's approach.

Premier Pierre Laval, after returning from Geneva, talked with the British ambassador to France, Sir George Russell Clerk, but an answer to London inquiries concerning France's attitude in the event of a Mediterranean conflict was to be decided by the cabinet later in the week.

Officials indicated that France would assure Britain of its aid if attacked while enforcing League of Nations recommendations, but said they were likely to leave open the question of cooperating with Britain in other circumstances until promised British aid in case of a German attack.

Donahue Departed

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—James Donahue, expelled from Italy for shouting "Viva Ethiopia!" from a hotel window in Rome, arrived in Paris today, apparently tired after a long train ride, and slept late.

The cousin of Countess Barbara Hutton Mdivani Haugwitz-Reventlow left word with the management of his Paris hotel that he intended to sleep until afternoon, and to tell inquirers that he did not wish to be disturbed. He arrived by train from Ventimiglia, on the Italian border, after being escorted there by two detectives.

Warship Arrives

Gibraltar, Oct. 1 (AP).—The warship Queen Elizabeth, flying the flag of Admiral William Fisher, commander of the Mediterranean fleet, arrived today from England. Its departure from England left only two serviceable battleships in home waters.

Stockholders Agree

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Holders of more than 51 per cent of the $14,946,000 six per cent notes of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co., which mature today, have agreed to the company's plan for a three-year extension of the issue, it was learned today.

NEGROES TO CAMPAIGN AGAINST ETHIOPIANS

Le Vesinet, France, Oct. 1 (AP).—Josephine Baker, negro torch singer and comedienne, announced today that she would campaign to get negro help for Premier Mussolini against Ethiopia. The American actress, who married an Italian, Pepito Abbadio, said:

"The Negro (Emperor Haile Selassie) is really an enemy of the negro race, for he maintains slavery, which Mussolini is determined to stamp out. If need be, I am willing to recruit a negro army to help Italy."

"I am going to tell all the negroes of the world that if they line up against Mussolini they will not aid their race. On the contrary, they will be adding the slave merchants that I hate to a determined to crush."

"I am willing to travel around the world to convince by brothers that Mussolini is their friend."

NEW MAYFAIR SHOP IS BEING STOCKED FOR OPENING

The Mayfair Shop at 297 Wall street, which will be opened shortly by Arthur Sussman, formerly of New York, as a cosmetic and patent remedy store, is being stocked under the supervision of Mrs. Jeanne Snyder, formerly of Wholans and the Rich and Meyer jewelry shop, who is to manage the new store.

Today Mrs. Snyder said that the Mayfair will carry a full line of the leading cosmetics and special articles for facial treatments, also patent remedies at lowest prices which will be announced soon in an advertisement giving the opening date of the shop.

4 Men in Prison

Mexico City, Oct. 1 (AP).—Four men were held in the federal penitentiary today in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, minister of agriculture. Police said Andres Nava Salazar, one of these jailed, confessed that Gen. Manuel Larraga offered him 10,000 pesos for the life of General Cedillo.

General Larraga was alleged by police to be a personal enemy of the secretary of agriculture, and for some time to have been the leader of a rebel group operating against the government in the state of San Luis Potosi.

Series Scalpers Bust

Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP).—Scalping in World Series baseball tickets was reported in full bloom today with curbstone prices quoted as high as $100 for a pair of $5.50 tickets to each of the first three games. Reports of scalpers' activities where the World Series crowds were scrambling for sleeping and seat accommodations indicated that prices rivalled those asked for the Louis-Baer fight in New York.

Hoey Grand Jury, Nov. 12

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 1 (AP).—The Chester county court ordered the sheriff today to empanel a grand jury on November 12 to consider "such matters as the district attorney lays before them." The action was regarded as approval of the district attorney's petition for a grand jury investigation of the death of Evelyn Hoey, showgirl friend of Henry H. Rogers, 3d.

Erecting Entanglements

London, Oct. 1 (AP).—Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Alexandria, Egypt, today said British soldiers were busily engaged erecting barbed wire entanglements around the wireless station at Ras El Tin.

The ladies are meeting to formulate plans for their duties and it is contemplated that every detail will be competently handled.

It has been suggested that the refreshment room be decorated in an autumnal scheme and that individual tables be set with lighted candles. Something new in the way of menu has been planned.

A representative of the New York booking firm which will attend the professional entertainment met recently with the entertainment and music committee and an unusual and high class series of features has been selected.

Reports indicate that the tickets are selling well and that a large audience will attend to take advantage of the entertainment as well as great many who will enjoy the dancing to follow the entertainment the evening of October 11.

To Hold Ladies' Night
Thursday evening of this week the men of St. John's Men's Club will observe ladies' night. All club members are privileged to bring lady guest, and former club members or those men who would like to join the club are extended to same courtesy. The hosts are planning a particularly enjoyable evening with an entertainment, the program beginning at eight o'clock. This will be followed by dancing and the serving of refreshments. A cordial welcome is extended to club member former active and prospective and their wives or other lady guests.

Redeemer Sewing Circle
The sewing circle of the Church of the Redeemer will meet Wednesday, October 2, at the home of Mrs. James L. Rowe, 100 Downs street.

Ethiopia Looks To Belgian Colonel As Chief Strategist Against Italy

By EDUARD TRAUSS

Brussels (AP).—The former manager of a Fascist periodical in Belgium may help lead the army of the Ethiopian emperor against Italian invasion in the event that war becomes an actuality.

To Colonel Leopold Reul, leader of the new detachment of Belgian officers who have arrived in Addis Ababa, may devote much of the military strategy by which Haile Selassie would seek to repulse an Italian advance.

Col. Reul, until recently, has been one of the most active members of the Fascist movement in Belgium, with the position of general manager of the Fascist periodical "L'Action Nationale."

Signs Two-year Contract

One of the directors of this publication was recently named a commander in the Order of the Italian Crown, at the instigation of Il Duce himself.

Colonel Reul, who is only 32, with a reputation as a brilliant military strategist, has reportedly signed a two-year contract as chief-of-staff of the Ethiopian forces.

He and other former Belgian officers under his command, it is stated in military circles here, probably will replace the original Belgian military mission to Addis Ababa in the event of war.

The action of the Belgian officers in contracting their services to the African empire started an official investigation by the Belgian Ministry for national defense, with a possibility that some of the officers may be recalled.

Wounded in World War

The Belgian colonel is regarded here as well equipped in training and experience for whatever duties may be given him. He is thoroughly familiar with colonial conditions, having spent three years in active service in the Belgian Congo.

He was among the first to be wounded in the World War, a bullet piercing his throat and depriving him of speech for a year. Subse-

Cities Service To Support The Kingston Legionnaires

A communication from Frank "Pop" Morgenweck states that Cities Service has contributed a substantial sum toward starting off the Kingston Legionnaires in their American Basketball League campaign this season.

In return for its generosity, Cities Service will be given the privilege of having its emblem or some such insignia on the back of the Legionnaire jerseys. Morgenweck expressed great praise for the oil and gasoline concern in his letter, saying the contribution will aid greatly in getting the club started with proper equipment, etc.

Morgenweck stated that he more than appreciated the kind efforts of Lucius H. Doty, general manager of Cities Service here, through whom the agreement was made to have the "Black and White" filling station concern help to finance the Legionnaires for their start.

Mr. Doty, who is a Legionnaire himself, has been interested in the basketball team since it started a year ago. He was eager always to know how Bobby Cullum was making out in his activities as a rookie in professional basketball. This local youngster, who is employed by the Cities Service, probably will be watched more closely this season by Mr. Doty who is anxious to see him make good in the American League.

Cullum is working out daily at the Y. M. C. A. to prepare himself physically for the exhibition games at the Municipal Auditorium the latter part of October. Frank Shimek, star of last year's club, who remained in Kingston all summer, is coaching Bobby. After he finished his workout last night, Cullum said he lost three or four pounds. Morgenweck will be pleased to learn Bobby is reducing. "Be sure to cut your meals down to less than six a day," he advised the young rookie last season when he learned that Bobby's hobby is eating.

Morgenweck stated in his letter that he has signed Frank Shimek, Charlie Husta, Ward Meyers, Corky Stanton and Bill Hamilton. With the exception of Meyers, all these men played with the Legionnaires last season. Meyers played with Shimek and Husta when they were on the Fort Wayne team and is said to work well with these two.

Hank Kuriyaka, the old ball hawk of last season's club, has not returned to his contract yet, but Morgie thinks he'll sign on the dotted line shortly.

Besides the regular listed and Bobby Cullum, Frank Kearns and another rookie by the name of Johnston from Elton College, N. C., prospective center man, will work out with the Legionnaires when they open their training season, at the Auditorium October 17.

Lyceums Win from Central Hudson

In the City League practice game Monday night, between the Lyceums and the Central Hudsons, played on the St. Peter's alleys, the Lyceums won two out of three games and also won high game total. There was a tie for highest single game, N. Bruck and J. Spader each rolling 201 in the third game.

FORDHAM MUST PERK UP TO WIN FROM BOSTON

New York, Oct. 1. (AP)—Fordham must perk up in its football execution before Saturday, or Boston College may dispel some of its dreams of conquest.

The Rams had to give everything they had to get by Franklin and Marshall last Saturday, and in their previous days the Boston College Eagles were no setup for them. Last year the New Yorkers barely got by the Boston boys, 6-0.

Relying under the Notre Dame system on effective blocking for the successful execution of plays, Fordham must show definite improvement in this department in order to fare well.

Sloppy Jim Crowley, whose fame as the chief ball carrier of the famous Notre Dame "Four Horsemen" was due in great part to the blocking of his mates, started the Monday workout with a blocking drill.

Fordham's aerial game also was poor, the team having tried eight passes without one connection. This was true despite the fact Franklin Marshall was using a seven-two-two defense most of the time, a weak defense against a team that strikes through the air.

Wilbur Dodgers Report Great Season

Coach Melvin Lynch and Manager Jerry Diers report that the Wilbur Dodgers, playing for the first year under that name, had a great season; also that they will be back again next year and will enter a team in the City League. They thank all who helped the team in any way the past season and also the teams which helped them fill out their schedule.

Although the Dodgers only won 23 out of 46 games played, 17 of the games lost were by a one or two run margin; in addition the Dodgers were a traveling ball club and played many games away from home. The victory in which they take the most pride was over the crack team representing the Maplecrest summer resort, the Dodgers taking two out of three games played on the Maplecrest diamond.

The following players played 20 games or more with the Dodgers: Bud Zoller, Jim Fitzpatrick, Pucker Davis, pitchers; Hank Wenzel, Mandy Collins, Bud Conlon, catchers; Duke McElrath, Joe Spitzer, 1st base; Jerry Diers, Hank Cragan, second; Ernie Best, third; Larry Wenzel, Walt Peterson, short stop; Charlie Tiano, Bud McLean, Andy Jansen, Paul Kennedy and Charles Lynch, fielders.

Howard's Quarter Declared Ineligible
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 1 (AP)—Harvard's "new deal" varsity football team, which receives its initial test this week, was without a captain today because J. Robert (Bob) Haley, regular quarterback for the past two seasons, violated one of the university's many strict eligibility regulations.

Haley astounded his teammates by resigning last night after the committee on the regulation of athletic sports, headed by Athletic Director William J. Bingham, declared him ineligible for further intercollegiate competition because he had accepted assistance from a person other than one "on whom he is naturally dependent for financial support."

"A rule has been technically violated unknown to me," Haley said. "As the committee feels that this violation warrants a penalty, there is nothing else for me to do but tender my resignation as captain of the Harvard football team. This is indeed an extreme disappointment and a severe blow to me."

Battery A to Open Season October 24

Members of the basketball team of Battery A, 156th Field Artillery, are asked by Coach Lynch to be on the field at the armory, Manor avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight, for practice.

Veterans who have turned out for the team this year are Harry Geisler and Jim Fraleigh, forwards; Joe Conroy, center; Ben Bell, Jim Bradford and Burton Streeter, guards.

Chirp Mills will referee all games. Battery A will play their first game on October 24, playing the Port Jervis All Stars at the Kingston armory. These two teams broke even in games last year.

A girls' team has been organized and will be seen in preliminary games. Joe Spitzer will referee the preliminary games. The girls' team will be made up from the following players: Emily and Olga Buzdygan and Edna Martin, forwards; Mary Butler and Evelyn Krum, center; Dot Carter, Sally Ryan, guards.

Figures The Cubs To Defeat The Tigers In Six-Game Series

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP)—For three more or less debatable reasons, not necessarily confined to the baseball "dope" or succulent statistics, it is this writer's belief that the Chicago Cubs will beat the Detroit Tigers in a six-game world series.

The Cubs are the "hottest" team in either major league, fresh from a 21-game winning streak and booming toward the big show under terrific impetus. With their streak ended, they may be overdue for a reaction, but they didn't let down until they crushed the last resistance of the celebrated Gas House Gang in St. Louis and knocked out the incredible Deans.

Secondly, Chicago has a remarkably young, aggressive club that is geared for high-speed. It's an outfit that might crack under pressure but it didn't against as tough opposition as the American League could offer the Tigers. It has nothing to lose and everything to gain by shooting the works.

College Football Spirit
The Cubs act more like a college football team than an aggregation of professional ball-players. Their attitude is in marked contrast to that of the more experienced but less agile Tigers.

They will enter the series with the same psychological advantage that swept the 1906 White Sox, the famous "hitless wonders," and the youthful 1910 Athletics to victory over the great Chicago Cubs of Frank Chance's day; that carried the miraculous Boston Braves of 1914 to a sweep over the Athletics, and marked the dramatic triumph of the 1933 New York Giants, spurred on by Blondy Ryan, over the Washington Senators.

There's always the ultimate tumble, but the crest of a winning wave is a good spot and the Cubs are on it now. The Tigers were unable to break even in their last 26 games, winning 12 and losing 14. The Cubs won 23 of their last 26. Cochrane's crew may get caught in the rush unless it snaps to mid-season form and drive.

And Then, There's Warneke
Finally, and to be more specific, it is this writer's view that lanky Lonnie Warneke, Arkansas rival of the celebrated Schoolboy Rowe, will give the Cubs a pitching edge. Warneke was the best right-hander in either major league at the finish. His seventh straight victory, a two-hit shutout of the Cardinals last week, was a masterpiece. Rowe also is a great "money" pitcher. Their opening duel should be one of the best in many years.

An even break for the Cubs in the two games here, Wednesday and Thursday, would send them back to thrive on the roar of the home-town crowds at Wrigley Field for the next three engagements. A great home team, the Bruins might steam-roller the Tigers in Chicago. All things considered, however, the warring forces seem likely to return to Detroit for a sixth game before the payoff.

A Thousand Fans Keep Vigil All Night

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—A thousand or more fans who wanted World Series reservations had enough stay up all night out in the open area from coats, crates, garbage pails and even the sidewalk to morning to do cash and carry business at Wrigley Field ticket booth.

It was a long, chilly night of waiting, but most of the standers in line were equipped with blankets, tobacco and other things intended to help the time pass more quickly. They had strung out in one long queue and a detail of police had the task of splitting them up and forcing them into shorter lines between each of the score of booths.

The opening of the wickets and a 28-hour vigil for the number one unit. Gus Swanson, Edwin Brummett and John Peterson, Chicagoans, and Robert Sinclair of Chester, Ind., staked out their claims at 4 a. m. yesterday.

At 5 a. m. (central standard time) the police department estimated there were more than 10,000 persons in the line.

It was a friendly mob, standing who had not taken food or had run out of cigarettes, left their place in the line in care of neighbors in the duration of the wait, while they ate at nearby lunchrooms or purchased cigarettes. Impromptu bridge games sprang up among foursome members of which were two strangers to one another the day before yesterday.

All these patient souls were in line for box seats at $19.80 a strip of three, and grand stand seats at $16.50 the set.

The wait wasn't anywhere near over for the "line" in front of a window where the $1.10 black seats will be sold. Art Felch of Milwaukee, who became the "old settler" by taking his stand September 19, the day the Cubs won the 16th straight victory, and Harry Thomas, a Cub fan from Detroit, will have to hold on until Friday when the bleacher sale opens.

They were pretty well fixed for ever. They had a pup tent, a radio and electric lamps, along with deal with policemen to shoo off claim-jumpers as might appear while they ate.

Deal Turns Into Jobs Campaign Rout Out the Dole

Kingston, Oct. 1 (AP).—The administration drive to put $3,500,000 on work relief for November 1, and into its final month today, the present status of the campaign is disclosed.

The last public statement, September 23, showed $31,703 at work under the program. More recent figures were not available today at the Progress Administration headquarters.

Direct relief, known as the "dole," has been abandoned in six states as the work relief program was advanced. They were Indiana, Ohio, New Hampshire, Alabama, Maine and Vermont. But $61,000 was allocated for the other states for October, indicating that work plan had a long way to go to absorb the burden.

Though administration officials are a tremendous task in getting full quota of workers busy during the next month, they had passed a hump in allocating the money, deciding how it would be spent.

Only a few hundred thousand dollars are exact sum changing from day to day and from hour to hour, aimed unallocated, according to latest available figures. Even there was some uncertainty.

At WPA headquarters, National Emergency Council offices, and treasury, brought varying reports about the exact allocations.

The Public Works Administration, ever, had finished the allocation of $22,000,000 and announced approved projects, subject to review by Comptroller General Mc-

It also had completed the allocation of $100,000,000 earmarked for cost housing projects.

Most of this work will not get away for some time, however, the real burden of getting the 10,000 people at work by the end of the month falls on WPA, headed by Harry L. Hopkins.

The exact amount of money available for this program will not be known until statisticians have completed tabulating allotments to commercial agencies and find what it. Officials indicated today it would be somewhere around the $10,000,000 which WPA has allocated in state quotas.

Studies Offered in Growing of Flowers

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The twelve weeks' course in flower growing that has become popular with florists, gardeners, and others, will again be given at Cornell University, from October 30, 1935, to February 7, 1936.

This course is one of six offered at the same time and known as winter courses. The others given are in general agriculture, dairy industry, poultry husbandry, fruit growing, and vegetable crops. Tuition is free to those who are or have been residents of New York for one year previous to registration.

The studies in flower growing are designed mainly to help those who wish to grow flowers commercially, on estates, or in parks. A course in retail flower store management is available for the first time this year and deals with store equipment, salesmanship, business methods, delivery, decorating and artistic flower arrangement.

The major course in flower growing includes a study of ways to grow and to market such standard florists' crops as roses, carnations, sweet peas, and miscellaneous cut flowers and bedding plants. Such newer developments as the use of artificial lights and aster cloth houses are also emphasized, along with studies of soils, fertilizers, and insect pests. Opportunity is also given to study vegetable crops, forestry, and public speaking.

More information about the winter courses may be had from the Secretary, New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, New York.

CHIROPRACTORS HOLD DISTRICT MEETING HERE

The tenth district of the New York State Chiropractic Society held its regular meeting in Kingston Sunday afternoon at the offices of William H. Pretzsch, 72 Presidents Place. J. J. Killeen of Newburgh, the president, called the meeting to order and reported briefly on items of interest that had transpired during the summer recess. Most important was the outcome of the Binghamton affair where 23 chiropractors in that area were arrested last summer on a technical charge of practicing medicine without a license. The announcement that the first four to stand trial were all acquitted and with the jury out only a few minutes in each case, was received with much applause. Another item of interest, Chiropractor Killeen mentioned, was the recent resolution passed upon by the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of New York state. It stated in part: "Whereas, chiropractic treatment has been found effective, especially in the treatment of mental and nervous disorders, . . . be it resolved, that the Department of the State of New York, Veterans of Foreign Wars, use every effort to have chiropractic treatment accorded to all mentally disabled veterans in government and state hospitals in the state of New York."

Because of the discussion about the bill for chiropractic recognition to be presented again in the next session of the legislature, the reading of J. L. MacKinnon's paper was postponed until the next meeting. After the routine unfinished business was transacted, a buffet luncheon was served and a social hour enjoyed before adjournment.

TIPS ON CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL.

Some Inquiries.

Q.—My partner opened the bidding with a club first hand. After second hand passed I bid two clubs. Fourth hand passed and my partner forced with three spades. Second hand passed. I bid three no trump and my partner leaped to six clubs, which was set. He claimed I should have bid four clubs over the three spades and that the three no trump showed additional strength, especially some spades. I said the three no trump was a sign off and that I already had shown a minimum hand by the two club courtesy raise. Who was right? I held:

S—2
H—Q 10 6 4
D—J 8 7 5
C—Q 7 4 3

A.—You were right. He who forces should be prepared not to find much with his partner. It strikes me that if his force were at all sound you could have made three no trump. After the two club bid there is nothing logical to any meaning to the three no trump bid other than a minimum response.

Q.—Is it good rubber bridge to bid a slam on a 50-50 chance?

A.—My friends at the Bridge House, New York, after observation of the setting of many slam contracts have concluded that players often take what they call a 50-50 chance whereas the odds are really not even. A fiasco, unless adverse bidding may indicate otherwise, may be a 50-50 chance, but those opponents of risky slams have noted that besides a successful fiasco, in order to make many slams that are bid, there must be an even division of adverse cards in some other suit besides that in which a fiasco must be taken, also the partner of the leader must not hold the ace if a side suit singleton is led against a trump contract, also adverse trumps must not be badly bunched.

Q.—My partner, the dealer, opened with one spade vulnerable. How should the bidding have gone? I held:

S—K Q 5 2
H—A Q 10 5
D—A Q 7
C—9

A.—I would have forced with three hearts. If partner bid three spades I would bid four clubs. If he raised the clubs I would bid seven spades. The club control would seem to be the determining factor in a grand slam bid, because partner might have bid one spade with five spades to the ace-jack, the king, jack and a low heart, the king-jack of diamonds and three low clubs. Culbertson's four no trump convention could have been used after the three spade bid.

Q.—My partner, the dealer, bid one diamond. The opponents passed until we got to three no trump and then doubled. We went down three. Over the one diamond, I bid two clubs, partner said two no trump. I said three clubs and partner went to three no trump. He reproved me for bidding the clubs, especially three clubs. Who was at fault? I held:

H—10 8 7 4
D—7
C—A J 9 7 5 3

A.—Blame your partner. He should have concluded that if you could not bid three no trump over two no trump or could not raise diamonds, you must have nothing much in your hand except clubs without a reentry. Three clubs would seem to be a safe contract. If his two no trump bid was sound, he should have had some clubs. Some players would bid one no trump over one diamond. But such a bid seems absurd. If partner rebids diamonds you would have to show the clubs at the three level.

Fight Pictures KIM Man

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Frank J. Low, 42, of Asbury Park, N. J., died last night of a heart attack after a showing of motion pictures of the Max Baer-Joe Louis fight. Low, assistant superintendent of a grocery chain store system, fainted and was taken to a hospital. He died shortly afterward. The pictures were part of the celebration marking the beginning of a new series of radio programs sponsored by the grocery concern.

New Elections Ordered

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 1 (AP).—The government prorogued parliament today, dissolved the lower house and ordered new elections. Premier T. Stauning explained that the government decided to appeal to the nation because it found it impossible to obtain any effective cooperation with the opposition in seeking to surmount an economic crisis, especially in regard to prices for agricultural products. The election was set for October 22.

Someone you love and hold dear. Mother, dad, sister, brother. An old friend. A teacher, a little boy or girl, a baby.
Show you haven't forgotten...

Send a Birthday Present!

Maybe it isn't tomorrow—maybe it's the day after, next week, a month from now. Maybe it was yesterday... but even so, it's not too late to send a birthday present.

Send a birthday present to the nephew or niece away at school who thinks you are, well, just the funniest person in all the world. Prove it. Put a piece of your heart in a package and write that boy's, that girl's name on the label. Send a birthday present.

Send a birthday present to your sweetheart. Make it a personal gift.
It needn't be expensive. But pick it out yourself. Choose what to send. Love is the best. And then, send it with your love.

Remember the boy in the corner. A birthday is a big thing to him. Give him a smile when you buy your paper; a box of candy, a baseball glove.
He will grow up to be a big man just because you remembered his birthday with a birthday present.

Send a birthday present to the boy or girl you used to play around with as a child, the boy or girl who once blew out the candles on your own birthday cake in the home of friendship.
Best; don't lose them. Keep them. Send them.

The nurse who took such good care of you when you were small.
She won't have many more birthdays. How delighted she will be to know you haven't forgotten. Send a birthday present.

Send a birthday present. There's no finer, grander custom. Everyone sends Christmas gifts—that's habit. It's expected, counted on. But you don't have to send a birthday present—it's unexpected. It shows thoughtfulness, consideration—and that's what makes it so welcome.
Give! It is the most wonderful thing you can do. You get so much back. Love, happiness, friendship, affection. All the things that really count.

Just because you don't have to do it—send a birthday present!

Send a birthday present. Don't send money... send the one thing you know that person will like best. It really doesn't matter what—or how much it costs. A present that cost one dollar—a present that you picked out yourself—is better than a new ten dollar bill. Just because you have said, "There! That is just what he wants!"

Chip in and help buy your boss a birthday present. You know the grief he's had steering the business through the rough water, trying to meet the payroll, to keep up salaries. Your troubles have been his troubles. Show him you know—with a birthday present!

Send a birthday present to the man you do business with, the customer whose trade has meant so much to you. He won't misunderstand.
Just to make sure he won't, send a present to the man who sells you goods.

Send a birthday present. It doesn't matter what you send. Flowers, a toy, your picture, a pipe, a rug, a clock, perfume, a puppy, a pair of socks—send anything!

But send it! It's a birthday present—and it's from you.

Lucius W. Nieman, 77, Dies, Was Milwaukee Journal's President

LUCIUS W. NIEMAN

Milwaukee, Oct. 1 (AP)—Lucius W. Nieman, editor of the Milwaukee Journal and president of the Journal Company, died today. He was 77 years old.

Nieman, who took over the Journal a few weeks after it was founded in 1882, had been ill for more than a year.

The Journal vigorously championed American causes in the World War period and was awarded the Pulitzer medal "for the most distinguished and meritorious service rendered by any American newspaper during 1918."

Lucius William Nieman, president of the Journal company and editor of the Milwaukee Journal, for half a century was a dominant figure in Wisconsin journalism. He took over the Journal a few weeks after its founding as a small political organ in 1882, suppressing its partisanship and producing the first issues "while sitting on a packing case and writing on a barrel head."

He never relinquished control of the Journal. Through the years in which the Journal became a publication of wide influence and attained a handsome commercial success, Nieman remained at the helm, constantly amazing his co-workers with his intimate grasp of the minutest details of the organization he developed. In the last decade he delegated most of his responsibilities to others, but he retained his office in the Journal building and dropped in occasionally to wrestle with particularly vexing problems.

The Journal was regarded by Nieman as the successful culmination of an experiment in divorcing journalism ism and politics. He started with that idea in 1882 and in Wisconsin's often turbulent political affairs he maintained a vigorous independence which frequently prompted him to shift support from party to party, and to assail erstwhile political friends when he believed they had betrayed their trusts.

Nieman was born at Bear Valley, Sauk county, Wis., December 13, 1857. His father died two years later, and he was reared by his mother's parents, H. H. and Susan Cupperman Delamater at Mukwonago, Wis. At 15 he set out to make his own way, going to Waukesha where he became a printer's devil for The Freeman. He attended Carroll college for a while and became Waukesha correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel. The Sentinel shortly called him to Milwaukee and he became legislative correspondent, city editor and, before he was 21, managing editor. An legislative correspondent Nieman developed a faculty for "digging out the story behind the official facts."

On St. Paul Dispatch

When ownership of the Sentinel changed Nieman accepted the management of the St. Paul Dispatch, then the declining property of Governor Marshall of Minnesota. Nieman received a third interest in the paper and a chance to acquire full ownership if he restored the paper to a position of leadership. Within a year its success was assured, but preferring to live in Wisconsin he went back as managing editor of the Sentinel.

In 1882 a merger of Milwaukee papers opened the field for a new one and Nieman grasped it. He failed to interest James E. Scripps, celebrated Detroit publisher, so he proceeded alone. He took over a small paper started as a political campaigner for P. V. Deuster, candidate for congress.

He began enthusiastically a "fighting" type of journalism then unknown to Wisconsin and through a series of exposures soon won a circulation that commanded respect. Financial success came much later and Nieman once confessed that the problem of meeting expenses "used to sleep at the back of my mind while I was writing an article—and did not sleep very soundly."

Nieman regarded the period immediately preceding and during the World War perhaps the most notable of his career. He championed American causes with vigorous skill which attracted nation-wide notice and the Journal received the second award of the Pulitzer medal "for the most distinguished and meritorious service rendered by any American newspaper during 1918."

GROCER MAKES ALLEGED CONFESSION TO ARSON

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney said today that Frank Vitale, grocery proprietor, had confessed he had a part in a plot to set fire to the store, on the first floor of a tenement building, with a resultant loss of 10 lives.

Kearney said that Vitale accused Joseph Di Chiri, 31, alias Mateo, of setting the fire early yesterday with three five gallon cans of either gasoline or naphtha.

Kearney said Di Chiri denied the accusation after three hours of questioning by himself, and Police Captains John Stege and John Norton.

Others were being detained for questioning. Kearney said Vitale said that a week ago he was approached by Di Chiri with a suggestion that he start a fire in the grocery to collect the insurance.

FACING TRIAL CHEERFULLY

Poultry Nutrition Course Is Offered

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 1.—A short course in poultry nutrition is offered by the poultry department at the New York State College of Agriculture from October 29 to 31.

Admission is open to persons engaged in resident or extension teaching or in research, and to persons who manage a poultry enterprise. They must be at least eighteen years of age.

The school offers new information and principles designed to help poultrymen to feed their hens more efficiently and to save money. Studies made at the college indicate that feed costs make up around fifty per cent of the total cost of keeping poultry, and that the cost of feed will probably be greater than it has been in the past few years.

Instruction is given by members of the poultry staff at Cornell, and this year Dr. L. E. Card, head of the poultry department at the University of Illinois, will also be on the instructing staff.

A few of the subjects to be discussed during the three-day period include: The different use of home-grown grains and other supplements to meet the maintenance requirements of poultry; how feeding affects egg quality; fall and winter feeding of pullets for high egg production; preliminary report on turkey feeding trials; and cause and control of rickets in chicks.

More information on this short course in poultry nutrition may be had from the poultry department at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Criticizing what he called "unnecessary" federal expenditures and "schemes for Socialization of Industry," Senator King (D-Utah) was on record today with a call for economy. Without mentioning names, the senator, a member of the senate finance committee, said in a radio speech last night in the Washington Star's forum: "There are in positions and in some of our individuals who are dissatisfied our form of government, and usurpation they could and if change in the constitution, this republic upon the sea of lism or upon a road that leads totalitarian state."
